What is Home Equity?

Home equity is the appraised value of your home minus any outstanding mortgage or loan balances that is secured by the property. In most cases, home equity builds over time as you pay down your mortgage balance or complete home improvements that add value to the property. Home equity is an important asset for homeowners since it can be used to open a home equity line of credit.

How Does Home Equity Work?

Whether you're looking to free up cash for a home renovation or find ways to consolidate debt, borrowing against the value of your home could be an economic friendly option. While you're paying your mortgage, you build equity that you can use to open a home equity line of credit (HELOC). Using the equity in your home to open a home equity line of credit provides homeowners with a flexible financial tool that can be used for expected and unexpected life events. The more you pay toward your mortgage each month, the greater chance you have at rapidly increasing your available equity.

If you're considering using your home's equity, consider the following:

- Calculate your equity. Subtract your mortgage balance from your home's current market value. To get an estimate of your home's current value, use the Mortgage Equity Calculator tool found on our website at www.cenfedcu.org/calculators.
- Consider the benefits of a home equity loan. Century Federal Credit Union's Home Equity Line of Credit (HELOC) with a Rate Lock Option, lock in a fixed rate when you draw on your line of credit for up to 10 years!*
- Consider the alternatives. Let the Century Federal Home Team guide you toward personal loan options or other debt consolidation alternatives with Century Federal.
