CONGRATULATIONS

TO OUR 2025 GUY H. THORPE RECIPIENTS!

Christopher

Connor

Connor's passion for helping others began with his involvement in the "Clean Team," a community service group focused on cleaning up Cleveland and supporting the homeless. These experiences sparked his desire to pursue a career in nursing, where he hopes to make a meaningful difference in people's lives. Connor's compassion, empathy, and dedication to service embody the values we seek to honor with this scholarship.

Vanessa

Vanessa is a committed leader and community servant. She founded an all-girls BSA troop, earned her Eagle Scout rank, and mentors younger scouts. A varsity athlete and team captain in field hockey and softball, she also participates in academic clubs, altar serving, and works as a Dairy Queen trainer. Her dedication to service and leadership stands out.

Alisdair

Alisdair is a dedicated musician and student who performed in Dr. Dana Hall's orchestration of Chris Coles' Nine Lives Project, using music to highlight social justice. Inspired by the experience, he aims to combine his musical talent with studies in history, philosophy, literature, science, and math through a dual degree at CIM and CWRU, to become a more impactful educator and performer.

Christopher

Christopher is a motivated student with interests in engineering and business. He shadowed a NASA project manager through the Genesis Experience and is active in his school's Business Club, attending events like The COSE Big Summit to network and learn. His activities reflect strong leadership and a passion for growth.

We wish you much success.

A WORD FROM SKYLIGHT...

A LOOK AT DIVERSIFICATION

Ancient Chinese merchants were said to have developed a unique way to manage their risk. They would divide their shipments among several different vessels. That way, if one ship were to sink or be attacked by pirates, the rest stood a good chance of getting through. Thus, the majority of the shipment could be saved.

Your investment portfolio may benefit from that same logic.

Diversification is an investment principle designed to manage risk. However, diversification does not guarantee against a loss. The key to diversification is to identify investments that may perform differently under various market conditions.

On one level, a diversified portfolio should be diversified between asset classes, such as stocks, bonds, and cash alternatives. On another level, a diversified portfolio also should be diversified within asset classes, such as a diverse basket of stocks.

For example, let's say a stock portfolio included a computer company, a software developer, and an internet service provider. Although the portfolio has spread its risk among three companies, it may not be considered well diversified, as all the firms are connected to the technology industry. A portfolio that includes a computer company, a drug manufacturer, and an oil service firm, however, may be considered more diversified.

Similarly, a bond portfolio that invests exclusively in long-term U.S. Treasuries may have limited diversification. A bond fund that invests in short-term and long-term U.S. Treasuries, plus a variety of corporate bonds, may offer more diversification.

MUTUAL FUNDS AND ETFS

The concept of diversification is one reason why mutual funds and Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) are so popular among investors. Mutual funds accumulate a pool of money that is invested to pursue the objectives stated in the fund's prospectus. The fund may have a narrow objective, such as the auto sector, or it may have a broader objective, such as large-cap stocks. ETFs also can have a narrow or broader investment objective. Keep in mind, though, the more narrow an investment objective, the more limited the diversification. Furthermore, a narrow investment objective may result in more volatility and additional risks associated with a particular industry or sector.

The concept of diversification is critical to understand when you are evaluating a portfolio. If you want more information on diversification or have questions about how your money is invested, please call us to review your situation.
